Colonel Childers' Caller . .

By JOHN TRAME

Copyright, 1902, by T. C. McClure

It was on Colonel Childers' sixtieth birthday that the affair occurred. Some men would have called it an incident, but the colonel insisted upon terming it an affair, and he almost decided that it was of national importance. He had won the Victoria cross for gallant action in India. After his retirement the decoration seldom appeared on his breast. It was brought out only when the Blues or the Horse guards tendered him a little dinner or when there was a meeting of war veterans to praise each other and find fault with the colonels still left in the field.

On this his sixtieth anniversary the Horse guards had announced a banquet in honor of the old veteran, and at the proper hour he left his rooms and made his way by omnibus to their quarters. He had only arrived when he missed his Victoria cross. He felt sure that it had been stolen. During the ride on top of the bus he had had for a fellow passenger a genteel looking man. They had got down at the same time, and the stranger had somehow stumbled against the colonel. The odds were a thousand to one that the cross had been taken at that instant.

The colonel's indignation was so great that he left the banquet behind him and drove to Scotland Yard. He wanted twenty detectives sent out to hunt down the thief. He wanted to know if Britain had an arm to protect her subjects. He wanted a good deal more, and when the Yard officials refused to enthuse he threatened to have the police system of England upset and rebuilt on other plans. Taken altogether, the colonel had rather a bad night of it, and he woke up next morning to vow that he would spend his last dollar to recover the missing medal.

Two weeks passed and the police still reported no clew. In other words, the complaint had been pigeonholed along with hundreds of others of no more importance. It was a cool headed friend who finally gave the fuming colonel a tip, and the colonel had inserted an advertisement to the effect that he would give £20 reward for the return of the medal. He bound himself to ask no questions and not to give the thief into custody. Within twenty-four hours he had an answer. An anonymous letter said that a person would call at 10 o'clock in the evening to restore the decoration and would trust in his honor as a gentleman, and so forth.

When the hour arrived, the person arrived with it. He was the man who had sat beside the colonel on the bus, and he looked even more the gentleman than upon that occasion.

The stranger, who was not at all embarrassed and was all politeness, would have taken his money and departed if Colonel Childers had not detained him. While the colonel meant to keep his word, he had a natural curiosity to know just how he had been despoiled.

"Egad, sir," he exclaimed as he pounded his knee, "I am sixty years old. I have been about a bit. Such a thing has never happened to me before. I have boasted that no living man could hocus pocus me, and I am willing to add £5 to this if you will tell me how you did it."

"I am quite willing to oblige," replied the caller. "But are you sure your man is not listening at that door?"

"He is not the sort to listen, but I gave him his evening an hour ago."

"And there are no other servants?"

"None. First, tell me this, if you will. How comes it that a gentleman like you is engaged in such disreputable business?"

"Believe me, colonel, but it was all a lark. I made a wager at the club that I would steal something within an hour, and my time was up within five minutes when I took your cross. I am deeply grieved if I have put you out. When I have shown this reward money at the club, I will return it to you."

"So it was a wager, eh?" mused the colonel, somewhat mollified. "I like a lark as well as any man, but that was going a little too far. You should have returned the cross next day."

"But I didn't know you."

"That's true. Now as to how you got this thing. Was it when you fell against me? You must be as tricky as a professional pickpocket."

"I will show you how it was, colonel," said the stranger as he rose up. "Stand up, please. If you will remember, you got down first. I followed you closely. When you reached the pavement, I was behind you, like this, and as you partly turned your head I"—

The stranger's right arm swept around under the colonel's chin, a knee of iron was pressed into the small of his back, and he was garroted after the most approved fashion in the center of his own sitting room.

It might have been ten minutes later when he recovered consciousness. Then the hero of a dozen battles and the recipient of half a dozen medals found himself treated like a dog. His hands and feet had been tied, a gag inserted in his jaws, and he had been rolled to one side. There were two men in the room, and each had a stout sack and was packing up such articles as could handily be removed. The collection of curios was large and valuable, and the men were connoisseurs. They were in no hurry. They drank the colonel's wine and smoked his cigars as they worked and now and then paused to give him a word of advice on Victoria crosses and advertising.

When the sacks had been filled and carried out to a carriage in waiting, the genteel man returned alone. He hadn't quite finished business. There was a safe in the colonel's bedroom. It was a thief proof safe, but the man had it open in five minutes. There were some jewelry and £250 in cash, and he stowed the plunder away in his pockets. Then he knelt beside the colonel and removed his watch and scarf pin and did not overlook a handful of change. There was nothing more he coveted, and he lighted a cigar, sat down in the easy chair and quietly observed:

"Colonel Childers, you are a fool. When you found your cross missing, you ought to have reasoned that it was not taken for its intrinsic worth, but with some ulterior object in view. In advertising for it you should have had the thief call elsewhere. If here, you should not have sent your valet away. You should have had no curiosity. You should not have let me step behind you. You see the result—the natural result. You are pretty effectually cleaned out, and I am £2,000 ahead of the game. And I will now bid you good night. Your man ought to be back in half an hour, and you will observe that your Victoria cross is left lying on the floor beside you. It has come back to you after many days, and I trust you will pin it on at once and be happy."

Nobles In Mean Attire.

Where did etiquette require nobles to appear before their sovereigns meanly clad?

This singular custom characterized court ceremonial in ancient Mexico under the Aztec dominion. When the native lords and grandees had occasion to seek the presence of Montezuma they were under the obligation, as Toribio de Benevente, a Spanish Franciscan missionary who accompanied the Conquistador Cortes, testifies, of assuming a voluminous mantle of poor material (una manta grosera y pobre), with which they covered and concealed their ordinary robes, in token of subjection and humiliation.

These were manufactured out of the leaves of the aloe tree by the commoner classes. Etiquette required the strict observance of this custom by all those who came into the emperor's presence, with the exception of persons of the royal blood. Any one seeking audience of the emperor had to don these common clothes on his arrival at the palace. Barefooted and wretchedly clad, he was led before the sovereign and with downcast eyes made his request, with every outward sign of abject subservience.—London Answers.

Just Like a Man.

Mr. Hopperdyke, who had been slightly injured in a railway collision while on a trip away from home, found it necessary to make a stop of a day or two to rest and repair damages. He was not much disabled, however, and he wrote a letter to his wife, telling her of the accident and assuring her that he was all right and that she need not have a moment's uneasiness about him.

When he had posted the letter an idea struck him, and he sent her the following telegram:

Have been hurt in railroad accident. Letter on the way, which will explain.
JOHN.

Two days afterward he received this dispatch from her:

Why on earth did you send that horrid telegram?
LUCY.

His reply was:

I sent it to prepare you for the letter.
JOHN.

—Youth's Companion.

Slightly Negligent.

A quack who had attended a man during several weeks of illness called one day and presented his bill.

"I can't pay this," said the ex-patient.

"Why? It's correct."

"I don't doubt it, but I haven't any money; had to pay a life insurance premium this morning, and that took every penny I had."

"What! Is your life insured?"

"Yes, and at one time, when I did not expect to live but a few hours longer, I told my wife to see that you were paid just as soon as the company paid the amount of the insurance."

"My dear man," the bogus doctor suggestively replied, "I wish I had known that. I think I would have got my money."—Illustrated Bits.

MAXIMS OF SUCCESS.

The truest wisdom is a resolute determination.—Napoleon I.

Things don't turn up in this world until somebody turns them up.—James A. Garfield.

The one serviceable, safe, certain, remunerative, attainable quality in every study and pursuit is the quality of attention.—Charles Dickens.

The talent of success is nothing more than doing what you can do well and doing well whatever you do, without a thought of fame.—Longfellow.

Never don't do nothin' which isn't your fort, for ef you do you'll find yourself splashin' arcund in the Kanawl, figuratively speakin'.—Artemus Ward.

I never did anything worth doing by accident. Anything I have begun is always on my mind, and I am not easy while away from it until it is finished.—Thomas A. Edison.

Never desert your line of talent. Be what nature intended you for, and you will succeed; be anything else, and you will be ten thousand times worse than nothing.—Sydney Smith.

Thunderstorms.

Thunderstorms are more frequent in Java than in any other part of the world, there being an average of ninety-seven days in each year upon which they occur. Next to Java comes Sumatra, which never has less than eighty-six "thunder days" per year. Then come Hindustan with 56, Borneo with 54, the African Gold Coast with 52 and the region around Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, with 51. The European list is headed by Italy, with 38 thunder days out of the 365 on an average. Austria has 23; Baden, Wurttemberg and Hungary each average 22; Silesia, Bavaria and Belgium have 21; Holland and Saxony 18; France, Austria and south Russia 16; Great Britain and Switzerland only 7. At Cairo, Egypt, and in north Russia and in Sweden and Norway the average is only 4 per year. In Finland and east Turkestan thunderstorms are wholly unknown.

By Mozart.

The average compositor has a most intense dislike for contractions and rarely puts one in his pages when it can be avoided. When he and the reporter disagree as to the meaning of some abbreviation, the result is sometimes amusing.

A good example of this occurred in a southern city where a popular touring orchestra was giving a Sunday night concert. Naturally their selections were principally of a sacred character. Next morning the Daily —— announced:

"The second part opened with a splendid rendition of the 'Overture From the Twelfth Massachusetts, by Mozart.'"—Harper's.

Followed the Example of Cato.

In the first year of the last century London affected great admiration for Cato's suicide, the feeling being aroused by Addison's play. A gentleman named Budgell, after witnessing its performance, threw himself into the Thames on his way home. His body was recovered, and on it was found a scrap of paper with these words: "What Cato did and Addison approved must needs be right."

Always the Mode.

"You don't care much for display?"

"Not much," replied the very wealthy man.

"Yet there is some satisfaction in not being wholly out of style."

"That is the point exactly. The things that money buys go out of fashion in a few months, but the money itself becomes more stylish every century."—Washington Star.

A Reminiscene of Land-Marks Day in Sonoma.

Dedicated to the Landmarks League of California, July 4, 1903

Triumphantly the Nation greets the day
That many years ago flashed an array
Of brilliant light around a noble name,
An aureole of glory and of fame.
To this great name a grateful country clings
And through two hemispheres the verdict rings;
George Washington, thy mission did outlast
Thy glorious past!

We know how from the acorn grew the tree,
We know what made us self-reliant, free,
We know that every race destined to reign
Must use the heart and equally the brain.
We have experienced years of shell and shot
And scenes of gore upon a stage of blood,
And still we must, while future lines are cast,
Learn from the past.

We learn our lessons from a by-gone world
In which some lofty mind great truths unfurled;
We grasp and learn while fondly we caress
The presence and the future for success.
We forge our way, at least we think we do,
Onward and higher—confident and true,
And while we hoist the mainsail to the mast,
We heed the past.

We learn that our father's deeds were blest,
That their ambition longed for mankind's best,
And that a vigorous and strenuous life
Brought them their victories in stress and strife;
We learned, while generations are but brief,
To mould our judgment, action and believe,
To use our strength, without standing aghast,—
All for the past.

Some strong ancestral teachings live forever;
They are results of crystalized endeavour;
They give us peace when meeting face to face
An unknown destiny in future days.
We pledge on crumbling altars noble deeds,
We fasten to Old Landmarks verdant wreaths,
Because we learn, while centuries move fast,
Learn from the past.

San Francisco, July 8, 1903. Charles Bundschu.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

GLEN ELLEN
By Chappie.

Dr. C C. O'Donnell made a flying trip to San Francisco Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Eph Cutter spent Thursday in Sonoma visiting his mother.

Bert Mahoney, County Clerk of San Francisco, is stopping at the Mervyn.

E. A. Hausington, a representative of the Armour Packing Company, spent Wednesday in this burg.

Miss Emma Wood visited friends in San Francisco several days last week but returned home to celebrate the glorious Fourth at the dove cote on the hill.

The following people are all registered at the Riverside: Mrs. R. E. Reed, Dr. Hugo, P. Ramie, M. B. Bodkins of San Francisco, John N. Nichelsen, District of Columbia, A. J. Cline, Petaluma.

Barney Frazer and Tom Marlin, clerk in the County Recorder's office, San Francisco, Corporal Dan Sylvester, who has charge of the Chinatown squad of Police of San Francisco, are all camping in the railroad picnic grounds.

The following guests are register at the Mervyn Hotel, Glen Ellen: Mrs. Joe Eppinger, Mrs. Hartman and son, Mr. and Mrs. Mahoney, County Clerk of San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. Newmark, Mrs. Demmick, Mrs. Capt. Wilson and sons, Mrs. Spaulding, Mrs. Fenton and daughters, Mr. T. Flargerty, Mrs. De Balard and son.

Julius Martins is at his old stand and is doing a Land Office business. Everybody is rejoiced to see him looking so well. He is a very popular young man. Since his return he has made many additions and improvements in his place of business, among which he has added a thirst quenching apparatas for the benefit of his customers. It is very refreshing these hot days and worth your while to call and enjoy. Julius is always glad to meet his friends, who are legion.

The celebration is a thing of the past. It was a most enjoyable and glorious affair. The committee who had the Glen Ellen part in charge were most untiring and persevering in their efforts to make it a grand success. It could not have been better managed. The Dunbar Improvement Club was the main factor of its success. Walter Bonbright, a member of the club, made an eloquent address and recited an original poem full of beauty, power and patriotism showing great depth of thought. There is something inexpressibly touching in his reference to our ancient forefathers that awakens most enthusiastic and patriotic feelings in our hearts and we feel sure nothing could be more gratifying to our readers than to have it printed so all may enjoy perusing it at their leasure in the quietness of home.

Information For Hop and Fruit Growers and Vineyardists.

Unless the hop and fruit grower, also the vineyardist, pay more attention to the ills threatening their vegetation many will find themselves in a position to sustain losses instead of meeting with profit. It is undeniable that the prune and cherry trees are afflicted with some peculiar fatal malady that is destroying rapidly many of them, giving to those orchards an appearance that will work incalculable damage. The hop vines in many localities are reported as not doing well, the foliage upon them being remarkably light. The grape vines are threatened with red leaf and loss of color in the foliage. Vineyardists know too well what this means, a loss of crops uncomfortable to hear. No efforts appear to be made to stay these disasters, excepting by one firm, and which firm does not own a single dollars' worth of property in the Wheeler Orchard and Remedies Co., whose efforts to check the phylloxera and other diseases attending the grape, and with which they are reported meeting great success, mean untold benefit to the vineyardists of this county. Experiments have been made by them upon the peculiar malady affecting the prune and cherry trees and they confidently assert that they can check the disease, save the trees and crops, if not too far gone. As soon as the grower notices a change in the foliage he should immediately spray thoroughly with Wheeler's I X L Compound, whether the affection be on his hop, grape or tomato vines, prune or cherry trees, and he will save his vines trees and crop. Send to the Wheeler's Orchard Remedies Co., sole proprietors and Manufacturers, 206 California st, San Francisco. *

Young America, What Ails You?

The man who lives an out-of-door life, who earns his living by his brawn and muscle, is a being who can defy bad weather and wet feet. He is quickening his heart, driving the blood through unused channels, hastening the breathing and increasing the secretions of the skin. He may be able to abuse his stomach, drink or smoke to excess and yet be healthy. His red corpuscles will still keep their round shape. But the person who does not live so close to nature, who works confined in office, shop, or ill-ventilated house, or is risking his life in commercial habits that are ruinous to the stomach and heart, such as lunches consumed at racing speed, overwork and late hours, will have fewer red blood corpuscles and an increase of white corpuscles. The red corpuscles instead of being round will form into all kinds of various shapes, as shown in border of this article. The stomach, heart, and nervous system of Americans is being sorely overtaxed. Our young people are over-educated and over-strained in school houses and homes, and this is bringing a growing evil to Young America. Sleep is often broken; the ill-used brain will not permit one to enjoy "Nature's sweet restorer"—sleep in bed.

The blood is slow, sluggish and filled with white corpuscles. Stagnation of the blood causes headache, constipation, bad colds, coughs and a pale countenance.

is gained by taking a medicine which is close to nature's way of making up for the abuse of the body, such as stated above. Dr. R. V. Pierce for many years studied this serious question while in the active practice of his profession and finally made a prescription of botanical extracts which had a wonderful effect in increasing the red blood corpuscles. He placed it on the market under the name of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

To gain in fat is nearly always to gain in blood, but to fatten a person does not depend merely on the food eaten; something more is wanted in the way of a digestive and tonic to enable the system to prepare and appropriate the food taken in. That is what the "Golden Medical Discovery" does. The blood-making glands are assisted in their work, the poisons driven out of the body, the liver made active; that force-pump of the body—the heart, is stimulated to healthy action, and every nerve of the body is fed on rich red blood—blood with an abundance of red corpuscles. Languid, tired feelings, nervousness and irritability, lack of appetite and sleep, vanish quickly after using this nourishing tonic and blood purifier. Muscle and sound healthy flesh is put on at an astonishing rate if Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is taken, together with mild physical exercise.

"Last summer during a severe hot spell," writes John Goetz, Senior Beadle, Forresters of America, Kodak 326, Corporal of 6th (regular) Artillery, heavy Battery B, First separate Company, National Guard of N. Y., "I became completely prostrated, unable to eat or sleep, with severe pains in groins and back, also blinding headaches. The doctors prescribed for me, but I did not seem to gain any strength, so decided try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, as I had heard it so highly spoken of. Am pleased to state that a complete change for the better set in almost as soon as I began using this medicine, and, within three weeks, I was fully restored to health and had gained eleven pounds in weight. I feel it a duty to write and tell you this."

"Please accept my thanks for your wonderful medicine, 'Golden Medical Discovery,' which has brought me from the bed to a healthy man again," writes G. W. Brisco, of Abilene, Kans. "When I began taking your medicine I was run down in health and flesh, had no appetite, had heavy pain in abdomen, headache, backache, dizziness, shortness of breath, also eyes were weak, could not do any work. After I got Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser it told me just what was the matter and what I should take to gain health. My cure has remained permanent. After using five bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' I am now able to do a good day's work and do it with ease. The relief was something that I could not describe. It has enabled me to do my work steadily ever since."

EXPERIENCED A CHANGE OF HEART

Judge Small Takes Pity on the Family of an Offender Against the Law.

Justice of the Peace Small of of this place sentenced James Fowler last March to serve six months in the County Jail for threatening to cut his wife's throat and raising Cain generally in the Fowler household. The sentence was all right in so far as the man was concerned and he ought to have been sent up for life if such a thing were possible. Fowler's family, however, since he was sent to jail, have been the real sufferers as they were dependent entirely upon him for support.

Since the husband and father has been in jail living off the menu furnished by the county and waxing fat off the flesh pots of Egypt, as it were, his family have been reduced to abject poverty and are now charges upon the county.

Fowler was arrested upon complaint of his wife, who assured Judge Small, the committing magistrate, that she was well able to care for herself and little family. Upon this assurance and the additional fact that Fowler pleaded guilty, the Judge "soaked" the offender with a six month's sentence.

As time went on apace, womanlike, the ill-treated wife repented of the most sensible thing she probably ever did in her life and forgave her erring spouse. She now visits him almost daily in his jail retreat and is moving heaven and earth to secure his release.

Mrs. Fowler's appeals in this direction were not without effect and armed with a petition she besieged Judge Small, routed him out of his citidel of the law, and on Tuesday last the kind-hearted Judge appeared before the Board of Supervisors and made a plea for the man's release by them. But the iron hand, stony-heart and glassy-eye of the law intervened and said nay, as the Supervisors are not empowered to turn people out of jail, particularly in these days of mock reform grand juries, when it is all that an official can do to keep out of jail himself.

The result was that Judge Small had his pains for nothing. Fowler will continue his sojourn in jail until his sentence expires and the man's family will be lucky indeed if they do not suffer the pangs of hunger ere that time arrives.

CHANGE IN SONOMA GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

Prof. W. O. Hocker's Position as Principal Given to C. E. Jarred.

At a meeting of the Trustees of the Sonoma Grammar School held last Monday, the following teachers were elected to serve for another term: Charles E. Jarred, principal; Miss Alice Humphreys, vice principal; Miss Florence Murphy, intermediate department; Miss Minnie Cook, primary department.

The Trustees were all present at the meeting, as follows: R. G. Shoults, B. F. Campbell and G. S. Harris.

A big petition was presented to the Trustees asking that Mr. Hocker be retained as principal. The Trustees, however, decided to make a change and selected Mr. Jarred to take Mr. Hocker's place.

The school will re open Monday, July 27th.

Ninety Days in Jail.

CELEBRATION ON THE FOURTH GRANDEST EVER HELD IN SONOMA.

Glen Ellen Makes a Great Showing in the Parade—Three Thousand People in Town and Procession was a Mile Long

The Fourth of July has come and gone and the celebration held here under the auspices of the Woman's Club was more than a success.

With three thousand people in town that day, a parade a mile long, two big brass bands, great enthusiasm, two Goddesses of Liberty and a grand ball in the evening with 125 couple in the grand march made this event the greatest by far that has ever taken place in Sonoma.

By 10 o'clock the town was filled with people from all parts of the county. At 11 the parade began. It was a mile long and composed of many handsome floats, brass bands, civic societies, bicycle riders, many handsomely decorated carriages and fifty ladies and gentlemen on horseback.

The floats were very beautiful, particularly those presided over by Queen Rena Small of Sonoma and Queen Ella Monahan of Glen Ellen, both of whom were handsomely gowned in regal robes befitting their station.

The literary exercises at the pavilion just after the parade were well attended, and then came the exercises in the old mission. This feature was the most impressive of the day. The singing by Mrs. Lulu de Emparan and Miss Natalia Haraszthy was of especial interest as both these ladies are members of General Vallejo's family. The appropriate remarks made by Mrs. Laura Bride Powers, Secretary of the Landmarks League, were listened to with close attention.

Other participants in the exercises were the Rev. Mr. Kirtland, who delivered the invocation, Frederick T. Duhring of the Native Sons, who made an address; Miss Gertie Lane, who read the Declaration of Independence; Miss Claire Hope, who sang patriotic songs; W. S. Boubright, the poet of the day, and Benjamin Weed, the orator.

The Sonoma Valley Union High School was represented in the parade by a float presided over by Miss Ruth Poppe as Goddess of Learning. The float was decorated with gold and white bunting, the High School colors. Henry Bates was Grand Marshal of the day, with James Tate, S. B. Lewis and Henry Weyl as assistants.

Among the distinguished visitors who rode in the parade were ex-Mayor Phelan of San Francisco, who occupied a seat in Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Spreckels swell drag, and Assemblyman Chas. O. Dunbar of Santa Rosa, who rode beside A. Froment, President of the Dunbar Improvement Club.

The parade committee, after the procession had been dismissed, made the following awards:

For the handsomest float—First prize, Glen Ellen; second prize, Carl Dresel.

Best decorated carriage — First prize, G. H. Hotz; second prize, Mr. Gaige.

Best decorated bicycle — First prize, Mrs. S. B. Lewis; second prize, Helena Clewe.

Equestriennes—First prize, Mrs. Carrie Burlingame; second prize, Mr. Joe Cowen.

The ball at Union Hall was a great success, one hundred and fifty couples and many spectators being present. The grand march was led by Mr. Thos. Willett, who impersonated Uncle Sam in the parade, and Miss Rena Small, the Goddess of Liberty.

The beautiful gowns worn by the ladies, the patriotic decorations, the large attendance and the fine spread set by mine host Miller of the Union made this the most successful function of the kind ever held in old Sonoma.

Much credit is due to the San Francisco Examiner, the Dunbar Improvement Club, the citizens in general of Glen Ellen, El Verano, Agua Caliente, Vineburg, Buena Vista, Schellville and Sonoma and the Sonoma Valley Woman's Club for the success of our Fourth of July Landmarks Celebration.

SONG RECITAL FOR THE BENEFT OF THE LANDMARKS FUND.

MISS MABELLE CRAIG.

The coming recital by Miss Mabelle Craig and Miss Julie Granice will be the event of the season. In all their work they have displayed great taste and versatility. Miss Craig is well known in musical circles in the city, where she has appeared in song and costume recitals, winning the hearts of her audience with her charming personality.

Miss Craig is a very beautiful young girl of the blonde type and possesses a voice of true lyric quality. Recently she appeared in Sonoma for the benefit of the Congregational Church and she moved her audience to tears by her pathetic singing.

Miss Granice, after one year's study in a well known conservatory in San Francisco, will make her debut in Sonoma before the friends of her childhood. She has received flattering recognition from one of the world's greatest singers.

These young ladies will be assisted by Hazel Sexton, a child wonder, in her clever monologues and catchy selections. She certainly does justice to her renowned teacher, Mrs. Mary Fairweather. At the piano Miss Elizabeth Davis, the daughter of Dr. H. H. Davis, will surprise her friends with her gift of accompanying. In solo numbers she also delights her audience.

The program composes numbers both pleasing and interesting.

SUPERIOR COURT NOTES.

A Clever Escape.

Prince Louis Napoleon, afterward Napoleon III., effected his escape from Ham in 1846 in a singular manner. He was imprisoned for his attempts against the French government, made at Boulogne in 1840. At 7 o'clock one morning the prince, having shaved his mustache and thrown a blouse and workingman's trousers over his own clothes and wearing wooden shoes, quietly walked out of the prison, carrying a bookshelf over his shoulder to complete his disguise. He was taken to be one of the painters then at work in the prison and was passed by several persons. A carriage was waiting in the neighborhood, and by 3 o'clock in the afternoon he was at Valenciennes, where he took a train to Brussels, and he arrived in London two days later. Meanwhile in the prison Dr. Conneau, the prince's physician, had placed a dummy in the prince's bed and told the governor that the prince was confined to his room by illness. This satisfied the governor until 7 o'clock in the evening, when he insisted on seeing the prince and discovered the fraud. By this time, of course, the prince was over the frontier. Dr. Conneau got off with three months of prison. Within thirty-one months Prince Napoleon was the first president of a French republic, supplanting King Louis Philippe, who had abdicated.

Bedouins and Water.

It is not unusual to hear a Bedouin upon reaching a camp where water is offered him refuse it with the remark, "I drank only yesterday." On the Bedouins' long marches across dry countries the size of the water skins is nicely calculated to just outlast the journey, and they rarely allow themselves to break the habit of abstemiousness, as this would be sure to make their next water fast all the harder. They are accustomed from infancy to regard water as a most precious commodity and use it with religious economy. They know every hollow and nook in the mountains where water may be found. Their camels and goats, which they take with them on their marches to supply them with milk and meat, live principally on the scanty herbage and foliage of the thorny mimosa. Neither men nor animals drink more than once in forty-eight hours. No wonder they can subsist where invaders quickly perish.

Rats and Their Food.

The capacity of rats for discovering fresh stores of food is astounding and often leads to those united migratory movements that periodically create alarm and are described as "plagues of rats." These great movements are undoubtedly initiated and "personally conducted" by old and experienced rats, the aldermen of the colony, at once a proof of highly developed intelligence and unselfishness. Rats in large centers of industry, if not present in commercial plague form, do a great deal of good as consumers of garbage that would otherwise become a perilous nuisance. It is also a popular delusion that a rat bite is unusually dangerous from this fact of sewer garbage eating. On the contrary, rats cut as clean as a new lancet.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Ellen Terry's Toe.

When Ellen Terry was a little girl about ten years old she played Puck in "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and had to make her appearance through the stage floor on a trapdoor. The trapdoor was shut too soon, and one of the child's feet was caught. She screamed with pain, and Mrs. Charles Kean whispered to her: "Be a brave girl, Nellie. Finish your part, and you shall play Arthur in 'King John.'" The trapdoor by this time was opened, but the child's toe was broken. She, however, pluckily pulled herself together and finished her speech.

Two Sad Men.

First Fisherman—Why do you come to this lonely place to fish?

Second Fisherman (sadly)—Because I like solitude and silence. I am a widower. And you?

First Fisherman—Because I, too, like solitude and silence.

Second Fisherman—Ah, you also are a widower?

First Fisherman (more sadly)—Not yet.

As Rare as Curious.

"My dear," said Mrs. Jorgson, as she closed the book she had been reading, "do you know what is the most curious thing in the world?"

"Of course I do," replied the brutal half of the combination. "The most curious thing in the world is a woman that isn't curious."—Stray Stories.

Got Rid of Him Quickly.

"Well, I got rid of that life insurance agent in short order," savagely remarked Mr. Higgsworthy.

"You didn't insult him, did you?" asked his wife.

"Insult him? No! I gave him my application for a policy, blame him!"—Chicago Tribune.

She Knew It.

"The longer I live," sighed the sage, "and the more I learn the more firmly am I convinced that I know absolutely nothing!"

"I could have told you that twenty-five years ago," said his wife, "but I knew it would be of no use."—London Answers.

Unappreciative Wretch.

"What did your wife say when you came home so late?"

"I really don't know. I can just remember that I woke up three times, and she was still talking."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

If men were relatively as strong as brutes they could juggle with weights of several tons.

A Very Remarkable Case of Diarrhoea.

"About six years ago for the first time in my life I had a sudden and severe attack of diarrhoea," says Mrs. Alice Miller, of Morgan, Texas. "I got temporary relief, but it came back again and again, and for six long years I have suffered more misery and agony than I can tell. It was worse than death. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for physician's prescriptions and treatment without avail. Finally we to Bosque county, our present home and one day I happened to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with a testimonial of a man who had been cured by it. The case was so similar to my own that I concluded to try the remedy. The result was wonderful. I could hardly realize that I was well again or believe it could be so after having suffered so long, but that one bottle of medicine, costing but a few cents, cured me." For sale by F. Duhring. *

Future of Young Lawyers.

"Young lawyers no longer can create their own opportunities," said a supreme court justice. "All a young lawyer had to do a generation ago was to hang out his shingle and hustle and wait. If he was well equipped for the bar he had a good chance to succeed. About all a young man can do now after he is graduated from the law school is to get in the office of a law firm at a small salary and work up, and if he is successful about the highest goal he can expect to reach is the position of managing clerk, though there is a chance of his being taken into the firm after long years of service.

"The big law firms and lawyers that make a specialty of real estate law, marine law, civil law, criminal law, etc., have revolutionized practice. In the days of Webster and Choate a lawyer was prepared to handle any kind of a case that came up, but now practice is specialized.

"On this account a young lawyer starting alone has little chance of winning fame and fortune unless he is unusually well backed."—New York Press.

Arabian Delicacies.

In a recent Egyptian review may be found some curious extracts from Al Djahez, a celebrated scientist of the tenth century. Speaking of the favorite dishes of the Arabians of that epoch, he says that they considered the flesh of young dogs a great delicacy and also ate grasshoppers and scorpions with much relish. Moreover, they esteemed the flesh of black cats highly, since they maintained that any one who ate it could not be injured either by sorcery or by the evil eye.

Al Djahez also says that he was disappointed when he found that the Arabian tribes of Bassorah did not eat grasshoppers, but, on the other hand, was highly delighted to find his friend, the famous poet Roobah, feasting royally on roast rats and lizards. The Arabians, he says in conclusion, also ate serpents and horses, but took the utmost care only to serve at table horses which had been harnessed, as they did not consider it right to eat those which had been ridden.

Mice That Subsist on Scorpions.

Among the queer forms of animal life that inhabit Death valley is a mouse that has acquired such a taste for scorpions that they form its entire bill of fare. The scorpion carries its formidable armament in the end of its slender, elongated abdomen in the shape of an exceedingly venomous hooked sting. When disturbed it elevates this in the air and goes in search of its disturber. But it is comparatively slow in its motions, while mice are proverbial for their quickness the world over. The mouse learned many generations ago where the scorpion carries its weapon, and when he meets it he leaps at the uplifted abdomen, takes off the sting at a single bite and proceeds to make a meal of his helpless prey. It is supposed to be the only animal that relishes scorpions.

Gladstone and the Actor.

An English speaker related this anecdote to an audience of theatrical employees: "Mr. Gladstone, when Mr. Beerbohm Tree was introduced to him, hardly knew upon what topic to converse with him, but at length asked Mr. Tree's opinion as to the politics of the stage, whether it is, as a rule, Liberal or Conservative. 'Well, sir,' said Mr. Tree wickedly, 'I really have not studied the question, but I should think the actors are mostly Conservative.' 'Dear me,' replied Mr. Gladstone, 'I wonder whether there is any exception to that rule?' 'I should say,' replied Mr. Tree, 'the scene shifters are Radicals to a man!'"

Arsenic a Necessity.

Arsenic—that terrible poison, abhorred of all people for ages, the chief ingredient of the philters of antiquity of the middle ages, when they were designed to get rid of a troublesome enemy—arsenic is neither more nor less than a constituent element of the tissues of all living beings, vegetable or animal. Without arsenic no life is possible. This purveyor of death is one of the great supporters of life. Such is the apparant paradox affirmed by Professor Armand Gautier as the result of physiological and clinical observations. —Paris Nature.

The Touch.

"A sweet book!" she exclaimed. "Not a touch of materialism in it!"

I opened the volume. On the first leaf I read:

"Ha!" I thought, but said nothing. I would not for the world shatter my wife's illusions.—Detroit Free Press.

"That's due to his early training. He began his career as a saw sharpener."—Minneapolis Tribune.

Bingo—All but the estate. The lawyers end that.—Exchange.

They Differ Much.

Ascum—Say, a "bibliophile" and a "litterateur" are the same, aren't they?

Newitt—Not much! A bibliophile is most pleased with first editions, but a litterateur struggles to achieve twenty-fifth or fiftieth editions.—Philadelphia Press.

If every man's mind was geared to work a little faster than his tongue many rash things would be left unsaid. —Philadelphia Telegraph.
